FOREWORD

The Montana State Agency Authority File was researched and compiled by Michael L. Nelson during the summer of 1979. During the fall and winter of 1979-80, the authority file was edited by members of the Authority File Committee.

The utilization of computer technology has largely made the compilation of the Authority File a reality. However, there are some filing inconsistencies in this edition. Please note the following:

(1) All headings MONTANA. DEPARTMENT... are filed as MONTANA. DEPT....

(2) The words "and" and "the" have been ignored by the computer in the alphabetical filing when these words are part of the official name of the agency. Therefore such agency names as MONTANA. OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR and MONTANA. OFFICE OF THE LEGISLATIVE FISCAL ANALYST are filed before MONTANA. OFFICE OF BUDGET AND PROGRAM PLANNING.

(3) All headings MONTANA (TER.) ... are filed after MONTANA. YOUTH JUSTICE ADVISORY COUNCIL.

I wish to express appreciation to Michael L. Nelson for his diligent work in bringing together so much information in a relatively short period of time; to Ric Roche of the Computing Center, Montana State University for developing a computer program for the Authority File; to library faculty at Montana State University for providing space for the research to be conducted; the members of the Montana State Agency Authority File Committee for the many hours they spent in correcting and making suggestions; and to Mrs. Alma S. Jacobs, State Librarian, and members of the staff at the Montana State Library for their understanding and patience in as much as this assignment has involved much of my effort and time away from other responsibilities.

INTRODUCTION

Scope

The Montana State Agency Authority File was designed to be as comprehensive as possible a listing of preferred headings for Montana agencies, both current and retrospective. We have attempted to include all agencies whose existence was verifiable at the time of compilation (Summer, 1979), as well as all agencies no longer in existence that could be identified as having issued publications. Inevitably, some will have been missed. The Executive Reorganization Act of 1971, which is further discussed below, not only completely transformed the structure of the executive branch, but also made it easier to reorganize the internal structures of individual departments on an ongoing basis and to create such bodies as advisory councils by administrative action. Consequently, the existence of some agencies, especially advisory councils and new or renamed subordinate units within executive departments, cannot be known until that body publishes something or is listed in a source, such as the Montana state telephone directory.

In determining what to include in the file, the term "state agency" was defined as being any entity of state government with official recognition from an appropriate source (whether that source was the legislature acting by means of statutes or appropriations measures, the governor acting by executive order or other means, or an agency head) which was funded at least in part by the state. This included subordinate units within executive departments, such as divisions, bureaus, sections and units. A very few minor subordinate entities were not included when the evidence seemed strong that, based on their assigned functions, they would never be involved in issuing publications. Officially sanctioned and funded events such as constitutional conventions, governor's conferences, study commissions and the like were included in the definition of a state agency. Voluntary, private associations or corporations were not included, nor were regional government associations in which Montana participates. Also left out were semi-federal, semi-state and/or semi-private bodies such as the Montana Solar Planning Committee and the Montana Energy and MHD Research and Development Institute. (One will also note the absence of form headings such as "Laws, Statutes, Etc."). In addition, standing and interim committees of the legislature were not included at this time.

Format and Methodology

Each record consists of six possible fields. The main heading gives the preferred form. The dates show the year of the agency's establishment and the year of abolishment if it no longer exists; if exact dates are unknown, the space for the unknown digits are left blank. The legal citation shows the legal basis for the agency's existence; if no state or federal statute or administrative regulation or executive order is found, the source of information is given if it is a published source. At a minimum, the citation will list which larger body the agency is a part of if it is a subordinate, or by whose authority it exists. The history note traces name changes, reorganizations, transfers of functions from abolished agencies to new or existing ones, and the like. It is used only when needed and hence does not appear in all records. This is also true of the tracings, which indicate all "see" and "see also" references for each heading that requires them. The verification lists which of five libraries (Library of Congess, University of Montana Library, Montana State University Library, Montana State Library and Montana Historical Society Library), if any, has already established the correct heading. If LC established it, the date and/or volume number of the appropriate National Union Catalog issue is given, and none of the four Montana libraries is listed. If it has been established by one or more of the Montana libraries but not by LC, the interlibrary loan symbol for each library that has established it is listed. If none of the five has established the heading correctly, the verification has been left blank.

In establishing the headings and associated cross references, the rules for corporate entries for government bodies found in Anglo-American Cataloging Rules were followed as closely as possible. However, all LC headings for Montana agencies have been followed as a matter of policy, in order to promote uniformity at the national level. Consequently, where superimposition has occurred, this file conforms to LC rather than AACR at the present time.

It must be noted that most of the headings not already established by a library were derived on the basis of agency names as represented in laws, administrative rules, organization charts, executive orders, budget documents, etc. It was impossible to look at the publications themselves except in a few isolated cases, due to the limited duration of the project and availability problems. As a result, headings may sometimes differ from the names as found on publications, since the latter can include variant forms of the official agency name. For the same reason, the number of "see" references may not always be sufficient.

"See also" references are used primarily to provide access to all publications of agencies which have changed names one or more times and, in cases where agencies have been abolished or reorganized and their functions transferred to successor agencies, to provide a link between predecessor and successor agencies. Occasionally, "see also" references are used when two agencies are so closely related to each other that reports, etc., of both have at least occasionally been published together as one document. Nearly all "see also" references refer both ways and are represented by "xx sa".

Quasi-judicial Boards and Other Administrative Boards, Commissions, etc.

The 1971 Executive Reorganization Act specifies that each entity within the executive branch be attached to one of the 19 principal departments created by that Act, so that administrative procedures of state government could be streamlined and made more efficient by the existence of 19 basic units rather than the multiplicity of agencies which had existed up to that time. This meant that a large number of administrative boards with quasi-judicial, licensing and other regulatory functions which had up to that time existed independently were allocated to executive departments "for administrative purposes only". What this means is that the department handles the budgeting and staffing, assigns office space, acts as a communication link with other agencies, etc. The boards still perform their assigned functions independently of the departments, however; they are not integral parts of the departments and thus retain their basic independent status. For this reason, entries for these bodies in this file always consist of the name of the body itself; the "umbrella" department is never included. Also, no cross references from the body as a sub-unit of a department to its own name are provided since it was felt that these agencies' independent status make it unlikely that anyone will look for their publications under anything other than their own names. An example of this policy: the Public Employees' Retirement Board, in existence since 1945 and attached to the Dept. of Administration since 1971, is entered as Montana. Public Employees' Retirement Board. There is, however, one exception to the foregoing: each of the numerous boards attached to the Dept. of Professional and Occupational Licensing has a cross reference from the board as a sub-unit of the department to its own name, since this particular department was created solely as a means of bringing under one departmental structure all the boards responsible for professional/occupational licensing and examination. The name of the department to which each board or commission is allocated is mentioned in the history note for that entry.

Bibliographical Note

Listed below are the major sources employed in compiling the authority file. This list represents only the most heavily used items; it is by no means complete. Many other items, mostly unpublished, were used, such as copies of executive orders from the governor's office, copies of agency organization charts, copies of prefaces or other relevant explanatory material found in various publications, etc.

Up to 1967 the State Board of Health was the State agency responsible for most health matters. In 1967 a new law created the State Board of Health. This law continued the Board and gave it supervisory powers over the new department, but delegated the day-to-day administration of the state laws regarding public health and related matters to the department. The 1971 law creating the Dept. of Health and Environmental Sciences abolished the State Dept. of Health and transferred its functions to the new department. It also renamed the State Board of Health and Environmental Sciences and designated it as a quasi-judical board.

Before 1971 the State Highway Commission was the primary state highway agency. It operated the former Highway Dept. and had general responsibilities for highway design, construction, maintenance, patrol, etc. The 1971 law establishing the Dept. of Highways abolished the former Highway Dept. and transferred the Commission's functions to the Dept. of Highways. The Commission was continued as a quasi-judicial board. Publications of the Commission, including those of the former Highway Dept., are found under: Montana. State Highway Commission. Works by the new Dept. of Highways are found under: Montana. Dept. of Highways.

Est. 1913, L. 1913, ch. 55.

The 1913 law separated the Dept. of Labor and Industry from the Bureau of Agriculture, Labor and Industry where it had operated since 1893. In 1921, the Dept. of Labor and Industry was abolished and its duties again consolidated with the Dept. of Agriculture, Labor and Industry. In 1951 the functions were again separated, creating the Dept. of Agriculture and re-creating the Dept. of Labor and Industry.

The Bureau of Agriculture, Labor and Industry was created in 1893. In 1913 this agency was split into Dept. of Labor and Industry and Dept. of Agriculture and Publicity. In 1921 these two departments were abolished and a Dept. of Agriculture, Labor and Industry was established. In 1951 this department's functions were again split, with L. 1951, ch. 177 creating a Dept. of Agriculture and re-creating the Dept. of Labor and Industry. L. 1971, ch. 272, sec. 1 continued both departments, although they were extensively reorganized internally.

Est. 1913, L. 1913, ch. 52.

Was constituted as an ex-officio function of the Board of Railroad Commissioners which had existed since 1907. Although this meant that the Public Service Commission and the Board of Railroad Commissioners were composed of the same members, the business of the two bodies was to be kept entirely separate. The 1971 law which estab. the Dept. of Public Service Regulation retained the Public Service Commission and made it head of the new department; at the same time, the Board of Railroad Commissioners was abolished and its functions merged with those of the Public Service Commission.

1901-1971

Est. 1901, L. 1901, pp. 80-90.

Up to 1967 the State Board of Health was the state agency responsible for most health matters. In 1967 a new law created the State Dept. of Health. This law continued the Board and gave it supervisory powers over the new department, but delegated the day-to-day administration of the state laws regarding public health and related matters to the department. In 1971 the State Dept. of Health was abolished and replaced by a new Dept. of Health and Environmental Sciences pursuant to L. 1971, ch. 272, sec. 1. This same law continued the Board but renamed it the Board of Health and Environmental Sciences.

1967-1971

Est. 1967, L. 1967, ch. 197.

Up to 1967 the Board of Health was the state agency responsible for most health matters. The 1967 law creating the State Dept. of Health continued the Board and gave it supervisory powers over the new department, but delegated the day-to-day administration of the state laws regarding public health and related matters to the department. The department was abolished in 1971 by L. 1971, ch. 272, sec. 1. Functions were transferred by this same law to the newly created Dept. of Health and Environmental Sciences. At the same time the State Board of Health was continued and renamed Board of Health and Environmental Sciences.

Est. 1937, L. 1937, ch. 137; cont. by L. 1971, ch. 272, sec. 1.

Has continued to exist under 3 sucessive parent agencies: Unemployment Compensation Commission, Employment Security Commission, and currently under Division of Employment Security. Although it has been generally known as the State Employment Service, its legal name under the 2 earlier agencies was Employment Security Division. The 1971 law establishing the Division of Employment Security continued the State Employment Service as Bureau of Montana State Employment Service (also known as Employment Service Bureau). All publications of this agency are entered under the heading: Montana. State Employment Service.

1966-

Est. 1929, L. 1929, ch. 184.

Operated by the State Library Commission. The Commission did not become active until 1945 due to lack of funding. In 1945 it began operation of a state library in Missoula, where it remained until 1966 when it was moved to Helena in response to a 1965 law (L. 1965, ch. 215) which among other things mandated information services to state offícals by the library. Although it has existed de facto since 1945, it was not explicitly recognized by statute until 1977 (L. 1977, ch. 3), even though it had been mentioned in passing in previous statutes. It should not be confused with an earlier State Library (1895-1949) which was the predecessor of the present State Law Library and the Library of the Montana Historical Society. Publications from the period 1945-1966 will be found under the heading: Montana. State Library Commission.

Est. 1937, L. 1937, ch. 43.

Before 1937 the school was part of the School for the Deaf and Blind in Boulder. It was known successively as the School for Backward and Feeble-Minded Persons. The 1937 law seperating this school from the School for the Deaf and Blind renamed it Montana State Training School. This was changed to Montana State Training School and Hospital in 1959. It was attached to the Dept. of Institutions in 1963 and changed its name to Boulder River School and Hospital in 1967.
